

Maria Teresa Badolati is a Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of Modern Letters and Cultures at Sapienza University of Rome, where she is currently working on ancient Russian literature. In 2022, she completed a PhD in Documentary, Linguistic and Literary Sciences (Curriculum: Russian Linguistics and Culture) at the same university. Her doctoral thesis focuses on the work of Aleksei Remizov and contains a detailed analysis of his pseudo-autobiographical text With Clipped Eyes [Podstrizhennymi glazami, 1951]. She has taken part in seminars and conferences in Italy and abroad. Her main research interests include Ancient Russian culture and literature, comparative analysis of Russian and Italian phraseology, twentieth-century Russian literature (with a focus on the work of Remizov), and textual analysis.

Tetiana Cherkashyna is a Doctor of Philology and Full Professor of V. N. Karazin Kharkiv National University (Kharkiv, Ukraine). Her main research interest is autobiographical writing, but she also works on: the study of the theory and history of non-fiction literature, the poetics of non-fiction works, the peculiarities of autobiographical self-representation, and geocriticism and geopoetics. Her main scholarly publications are the monographs Narrative Dimensions of Literary and Biographical Prose [Naratyvni vymiri khudozh'no-biohrafichnoi prozy] (Luhansk, 2009; in Ukrainian), Memoir and Autobiographical Prose of the Twentieth Century: The Ukrainian Vision [Memuarno-avtobiografichna proza XX stolittia: ukrains'ka viziia] (Kharkiv: Fact, 2014; in Ukrainian). She is the editor of the following collections of scholarly essays: Non-fiction Literature: The Theoretical Dimension [Literatura non fiction: teoretychnii vymir] (Kyiv, 2018; in Ukrainian), and Geography and Text: The Literary Dimension [Heografiia i tekst: literaturnii vymir] (Kharkiv, 2022; in Ukrainian).

Claudia Criveller is Associate Professor in Russian Literature and Language at the University of Padua. Her main research areas are Russian modernism and early twentieth-century Russian literature, with a particular focus on the works of Andrei Belyi. She has also worked on intersemiotic translation, working on Fedor Dostoevskii as well as Belyi. She has authored theoretical works on Russian autobiographical fiction with a focus on Vladimir Nabokov, Venedikt Erofeev, Andrei Siniavskii and Evgenii Kharitonov.

Giulia De Florio is Senior Researcher at the University of Parma and a translator. She obtained her PhD at the Sapienza University of Rome. She is a member of the editorial board of the international academic journals AvtobiografiA and Detskie Chteniia. Her main areas of research are: Russian children's literature of the twentieth century, Russian magnitizdat and sung poetry of the second half of the twentieth century, Russian rap, and translation studies. She works as a translator and consultant for Italian publishing houses such as Salani, Mondadori, Morcelliana, and Valigie Rosse. Her latest monograph, L'isola che (non) c'è. La letteratura russa per l'infanzia (1945-1991) [The Island That Is (Not) There: Russian Literature for Children (1945-1991)] (Firenze University Press, 2021; in Italian) focuses on translations of Russian children's literature in Italy from 1945 to 1991. She is working on a book about children's literature and the Gulag.

Iaroslav Golubinov, PhD in History, is Assistant Professor at Samara National Research University. His main field of research is the study of social, cultural and environmental aspects of the First World War in different European countries (especially in Eastern Europe). He is the author of several articles in journals such as Mouvement Social, Scando-Slavica, and Quaestio Rossica and in collected volumes such as Multilingual Environments in the Great War and Science, Technology, Environment, and Medicine in Russia's Great War and Revolution, 1914-22.

Simone Guagnelli is Lecturer at the Department of Humanities Research and Innovation, University of Bari. He is one of the directors of the literary festival Pagine di Russia and a co-founder of the journal eSamizdat. His research focuses on émigré literature (especially Georgii Ivanov), Russian memoir writing, samizdat, Gulag literature, and intellectual relations between the USSR and Italy in the post-war period.

Andrea Gullotta is Associate Professor in Russian at the University of Palermo. He has also worked for the University of Glasgow, the Ca' Foscari University of Venice and the University of Padua, where he obtained his PhD. His main field of research is the literature of the Gulag. He is the author of several articles and of the monograph Intellectual Life and Literature at Solovki 1923-1930. The Paris of the Northern Concentration Camps (2018). He is the principal investigator of the Research Project of National Interest (PRIN) Literature of Socialist Trau- ma: Mapping and Researching the Lost Page of European Literature, funded by the Italian Ministry of University and Research.

Natalia Lebedyntseva is Associate Professor at the Department of Ukrainian Philology and Intercultural Communication at the Faculty of Philology of Petro Mohyla Black Sea National University. She is the author of about 35 publications related to important issues in Ukrainian poetry of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries studied through the prism of body theories and psychoanalysis. Among the most recent are: 'Ukrainian Poetry at the Turn of the Millennium' [Ukrajinska poezija na prijelazu tisućljeća: ponovno otkrivanje identiteta], Književna smotra, 2021 (in Croatian); 'The Body as a Generational Marker in Ukrainian Poetry of the Late Twentieth and Early Twenty-First Centuries' [Tilo iak heneratsiinii marker v ukrainskii poezii druhoi polvyny XX – pochatku XXI storichchia] in Postcolonialism. Generations. Culture [Postkolonializm. Heneratsii. Kul'tura] (Kyiv, 2016; in Ukrainian); 'Corporeal Experience in the Identity Structures of Ukrainian Emigré Author Vasyl' Makhno' [L'esperienza corporea nelle strutture identificative dello scrittore ucraino emigrato Vasyl' Machno], Niprò. Rivista di studi ucraini 2023 (in Italian).

Rosanna Morabito has held a PhD in Slavistics since 1997 and is an Associate Professor at the Department of Literary, Linguistic and Comparative Studies at L'Orientale University in Naples. Her publications include: L'ultima meta: L'isola (Ostrvo) di Meša Selimović [The Final Destination: The Island (Ostrvo) by Meša Selimović] (Alessandria, 2020; in Italian); 'Il luogo incantato: Kod kuće (A casa, 1907) di A.G. Matoš' [The Enchanted Place: 'Kod kuće' (At Home, 1907) by A. G. Matoš], Semicerchio 66/67, 2022 (in Italian); "'Dove tutto ha fine": il primo viaggio psico-poetico di Miloš Crnjanski' ['Where Everything Ends': Miloš Crnjanski's First Psycho-Poetic Journey] in G. Baselica, Lazarević P. Di Giacomo, O. Perišić, (eds), I gigli nel campo. Studi in onore di Ljiljana Banjanin [The Lilies of the Field: Studies in Honour of Ljiljana Banjanin], Alessandria 2023 (in Italian).

Bartosz Osiewicz is a University Professor in the Institute of East Slavic Philology, Faculty of Modern Languages and Literatures at Adam Mickiewicz University. He is the author of the monographs Intertekstual'nost' v poezii Vladimira Vysotskogo [Intertextuality in Vladimir Vysotsky's Poetry, 2007] and Formy i źródła poezji Aleksandra Galicza [Forms and Sources of Alexander Galich's Poetry, 2016]. He is also the author and co-author of several articles published in Przegląd Rusycystyczny, Slavica Wratislaviensia, Studia Rossica Posnaniensia, Australian Slavonic and East European Studies (ASEES) Journal, AvtobiografiЯ: Journal on Life Writing and the Representation of the Self in Russian Culture, Mundo Eslavo, Rusistika: Journal of the Korean Association of Russianists, Vestnik Volgogradskogo gosudarstvennogo universiteta, Russian Literature and Slavistična revija.